Service-specific terms

State whether the output is brand identity, campaign graphics, website copy, social content, landing-page design, motion or video. Record compositions, versions, dimensions, formats, duration, language, supplied materials, source files and review rounds. Design delivery does not include coding or publication unless expressly listed.

Approve the brief and any storyboard or key visual before production. Consolidate feedback. Changed direction is a change request; an agreed-scope error is corrected without consuming a paid revision. List font, image, stock, music, voice and likeness permissions and any licence restrictions before purchase.

AI-assisted work requires approved tools and data handling. Do not use identifiable voices or likenesses without permission. Human review and rights checks remain necessary. Do not promise exclusive rights to material whose licence or origin does not support them. Select project or monthly terms explicitly.

Changes, acceptance and exit

Use one authorised approver for consolidated feedback. Correct agreed-scope defects at no additional charge; new direction or volume requires written approval of cost and timing. Define the review period and support window above. Silence is not automatic acceptance. Public release or consequential system changes require explicit authorisation.

Apply the completed MSA's correction, cancellation and refund terms. Allocate completed and undelivered value before payment; an advance is not automatically forfeited. Provider-undelivered work does not expire merely because a billing period ends. Document customer dependencies and a recovery plan. Ordinary agreed handover is included; extra transition work needs an approved estimate. A fixed project does not become a subscription without agreement.

Approval

MSA reference and approved departures: [identify]. Proposed terms selected: [complete]. Provider authorised signatory: [name, title, signature, date]. Customer authorised signatory: [name, title, signature, date]. Both parties receive all completed documents before signature.
